In their own words:

Team Submarine is Steve O'Brien (left) and Nate Fernald (right). Hailing from different parts of New England, they met in Chicago and currently live in New York where they do comedy at places that will let them. Their shows can best be described as, 'grown men throwing things at each other while words come out of their mouths'

In our own words:

They are awesome like your dad learning how to hide his disappointment better.
